The 1st ISCA summer school which will be in Heraklion Crete Greece is targeting to teach graduate students and researchers the latest advancements of speech processing covering theory, hands on, and establishing contacts between the academics and industry. The school will provide the chance to students and professionals to meet world leaders in speech technology, exchanging ideas, sharing experiences and vision.

For 2014, the school aims to cover the following areas:

- Speech Production and Modelling
- Voice Pathology
- Speech Intelligibility and Hearing Aids
- Statistical Spoken Dialogue Systems
- Distant Speech Recognition

Awards and Travel Support

Participants, if they wish, are expected to present their work as a poster, during 1 hour in each day (mid of each school day). Especially for students:

- There will be an award for the best student poster which will be announced during the last day (closing ceremony).
- We will support 10 students to participate to the school with 250€student for partially covering their cost of participation. A letter from the student's supervisor should be submitted with the registration. We will announce the beneficiaries by July 18.
